

Application deadline Oct. 22, 2016

Choosing Wisely Canada liaison

Choosing Wisely Canada (CWC) is a national, clinician led campaign to help clinicians and patients engage in conversations about unnecessary care. In 2015, CWC launched STARS (Students and Trainees Advocating for Resource Stewardship). STARS is a national community of student leaders who lead grassroots initiatives to integrate resource stewardship into medical education at all 17 medical schools in Canada. CFMS is a key partner in STARS and the liaison position fosters this partnership and relationship. Responsibilities for the CWC liaison include (but are not limited to): provide feedback and input on STARS national or local efforts, as well as communications materials, participate in bi-monthly webinars, and be in regular email or teleconference contact with the CWC medical education team. This is a relatively new role so your creativity is welcome! We invite students with an interest in resource stewardship, medical education and leadership to apply for the liaison role. Read more about STARS here: <http://www.choosingwiselycanada.org/medical-education/>

Position Details

Term: One year

Contact for further information: Franco Rizutti (president@cfms.org)